

THREE POLITICAL PARTIES, ONE MESSAGE...

"Let me say to you very clearly
- with me you have a British prime minister whose belief in Israel is unbreakable"

Conservative Party leader
David Cameron

"If I become prime minister in less than a year's time, I will be proud to do so as a friend of Israel"

Labour Party leader
Ed Miliband

"There is no stronger supporter of Israel than myself as a beacon of democracy in the region"

Liberal Democrat leader
Nick Clegg

WE NEED A PARTY THAT STANDS UP FOR PALESTINE

A NEW KIND OF PARTY

Politicians. They all look the same, they all sound the same – and almost every one of them supports Israel.

Left Unity is a new party that fully supports the fight for freedom for Palestine – together with so many other issues where the big parties are on the wrong side.

Defending migrants. Sticking up for people's right to claim benefits. Calling for the railways and energy firms to be taken back into public ownership. Opposing fracking. Supporting strikes. And that's just a few of the many campaigns we're part of.

Founded in November 2013, Left Unity is growing fast – it already has over 2,000 members and 50 branches across the country.

This is a new kind of party, with feminism, socialism and environmentalism at its heart.

It's a party that supports the campaigns and struggles of ordinary people, for public services, against war, for equality and for real democracy.

We say everyone has the right to a decent life, and our struggles the world over are one struggle. From Britain to Palestine, there can be no peace without justice.
